WHEELING, MARCH 2, 1894.

Artists in Ballots

The district attorney of New York is busy prosecuting men for frauds at the election in last November, and the juries convict.

At one polling place 271 ballots were returned, every one of them Democratic and every one a vote for Judge Maynard. Not a single vote for Maynard's Republican opponent, Bartlett, was returned.

Eleven men swore they vote the Republican ticket, every one of them for Bartlett. Among these was the Republican watcher, who complained at the time of the count that his ballot was missing among other Republican ballots. It took the jury fifteen minutes to decide that the Democratic inspector on trial was guilty of making a false cauvas of the votes. His Republican colleague is also on trial. He seems to have been a complacent opponent.

These prompt trials and convictions are part of the good resulting from the nomination of Maynard and the desperate effort to pull him through. That job aroused public sentiment and made it a power, as it always is when it is in active operation.

Ir is related that "Mr. Murphy did. not speak" in the senate & Democratic tariff caucus. Why should he? Mr. Hill does their talking.

Old Glory Good Enough.

The Brooklyn aldermen have forbid-den the holsting of any flag on the city hall excepting national, state and city colors. This is a good resolve.

If anybody cannot be happy unless he sees now and then some foreign flag flying over a public building in this country, let him go to the country which Dies the flag.

The local colors, with old glory topping them all, should be good enough for any American. Every flag means something, and most Americans know what ours means.

Demagogues like to take an occasionly fly at some other flag, thinking that a good way to catch votes, but this scheme does not impose on the foreign-born citizen who become a real American.

Tun President is said to be at this time "thirty miles from nowhere," he will keep on going he may overtake his party.

A Distinct Difference.

Senator Brice is invited by the New York World "to explain the difference, if there be any, between his views on the tariff and those of Mr. McKinley." If it will be quite as agreeable to our esteemed contemporary, suppose Governor McKinley be allowed to make the explanation. Senator Brice would like to save out of the wreck something for his state. Governor McKinley would like to save all the industries of the country. Senator Brice is not togical, Governor McKinley is,

Senator Brice acts with a party which he is obliged to denounce for making a sectional and destructive tariff bill. Governor McKinley belongs to a party which has legislated for the whole country and without any sectional or other discrimination.

Ex-Boss McKang is at last ornamented with his stripes. Now he knews what the people are "going to do about it." The man who thought there was ne hereafter has found it in Sing Sing prison.

The Frettal Majority.

In the house the Democrats have a majority over all of seventy-eight. Usually they have the support of the Pops. These inddists are with them of course on the silver fad. If there ha anything in a big majority the Democrats should be able to enjoy the usufruct. Above all they should be able to command their own quorum, which is accomplished by being present

To complain that the wicked Repub licans will not provide the muchdesired quoram, is to plead the baby net and to entitle every Democrat of them to a nursing-bottle.

Mr. Bhann gets his silver seigniorage bill through the house by a vote of 167 to 129. It is a reflection on that body that it contains so many minds either incapable of understanding so simple a question or so dishonest as to try to hoodwink the people to their injury.

The senate finance committee was in such haste to torward the tariff bill that it could not grant hearings. Well, a month has passed, and where is the committee's report? Many things could be heard in that time. The com- | tirely clear.

mittee has heard some of them in spite of itself. There will be a still better hearing at the polls and no thanks to

The President's Outing.

Democratic newspapers are not banging at President Cleveland because he goes off for a little restful diversion and takes it in a government boat. They used to take great offense when a Republican President did this. They saw in the use of government property for the President's pleasure a gross abuse of propriety.

In fact there is no impropriety in the occasional use of a government vessel to give the President an outing. The abuse is in abusing him for doing something that is not wrong.

The people are quite willing that the President shall keep himself in good health if he can, and do not object to his taking a ride in a government boat. The people of this country are not narrow or niggardly.

THE Bland bill will run against some obstructions in the senate and another in the white house if it gets through the senate. It is mischievous legisla-tion of a very rank type. It proposes to coin silver bullion which the government does not own into dollars worth less than fifty cents.

Mr. Gladstone on the Lords

The language used by Mr. Gladstone resterday in criticism of the action of the house of lords is full of meaning, It was dignified and respectful, betitting the character of the speaker, but it cur to the bone just the same.

The speech was a distinct encouragement to the growing sentiment against the peers, who sit where they do not because of their fitness but by reason of belonging to a privileged, class and abuse their opportunity to stifle the aspirations of the people. The only way to reach the house of lords is abolish it. and Mr. Gladstone gave something more than an intimation that this course would be justified by the action of that body itself.

If it be true that Mr. Gladstone is about to retire from the premiership he could not have emphasized that step with a more notable speech.

HALF-PORTIONS are growing in prominence on the menu cards of fashionable hotels and restaurants in New York. Why not? In these times the man who can get a half-portion is a lucky customer, much luckier than the other fellow who can't afford to buy food at all. There is suggestiveness in the half-portion.

The Sacred Rhinoceros.

Down in Jefferson county, Alabama, the Pops have been holding a convention and resolving. They denounced the state government as a despotism, as it may well be, for it represents stolen goods.

The point of the resolutions is to be found in this: "While the sacred rhinoceros is out in a satin-lined yacht catching fish, the people are out in rags begging bread on bare feet."

Bare-footed bread is a very clever conceit, but it is not up to the overwhelming thought of the sacred rhinocerous. This new title will entertain Mr. Cleveland when be hears about it. Indications multiply that all things Democratic are losing their grip on the sacred soil of Alabama.

A Texas jury says by its verdict that the Pullman company is not obliged to sell a berth to a man who has colored blood in him. The suit was brought by a man who is very nearly white, but that did not help him. Another jury should decide that the colored porter cannot be allowed to go to sleep in the car when he should be on duty

The Negroes of the South.

Something more than the telked-of convention of southern white men will be required to induce the colored men of that region to leave this country. The American negro is an American This is the only country he knows. It is his country and he is not seeking another.

He would not go to Africa if he were transported free and paid to go. He would not be at home in Africa, and he ment for the land of his birth. He will remain there or thereabouts if he can. Even harsh treatment does not drive him away in great numbers.

The scheme of bundling the southern negroes off to Africa is as probable as that sunshine will yet be extracted from cucumbers.

It is believed that the fall in freight rates to twenty cents a hundred pounds on wheat from Chicago to New York will be followed by another that will bring the rate down to fifteen cents. Even twenty cents is a low rate. It would cost at least that much to carry a hundred pounds of wheat from one end of Wheeling to the other by wagon,

What a jolly row between France and England. The British ambassador to France must go as the price of his little intrigue to worm state secrets out of the exar of Russia. It must be humiliating to the British pride to be caught in such a scandal. The saving clause is that the story may be untrue. It is already denied. Those French journalists have highly inventive minds.

GOVERNOR MACCORKLE deservas credit for sending troops promptly to the scene of disturbance in Fayette county. The public peace must be preserved, no matter what difficulties may exist between men. More than this, there is no better way to save life than by making it plain that a mob cannot rule any community in the state.

Tun people are now to say at the polls whether they want a Greater New York with greater opportunities for the taxcalors and less chance to get at them. It is a very captivating scheme to get together the raw materials for the second city in the world, but the substantial benefits have not been made enBREAKFAST BUDGET.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Ex-Gov. Beaver, of Pennsylvania, has accepted election as a member of the council of his town of Bellefonte. After the late William Bigler had been gover-nor of the state and United States senator he became a school director in his town and attended to the business of the office with enthusiasm.

Carl von Bulow, of Butte, Mont., says he is a nephew of the dead musician, and, being the only relative, will come in for his estate, which amounts to $1.00,000 marks. The nephew is now employed as bar porter in the Hotel Butte, but says he will start for Germany at once to chim his forture. once to claim his fortune.

When Joseph Keppler revisited Vienna, his native city, a few years ago, an editor there offered him a salary of 50,000 marks a year for his services—an amount deemed fabulous by the Viennese. The artist in declining the offer remarked that he was earning 200,000 marks a year in New York. John Wesley Hardin, the terror of to-day paid the penalty was the murder of Policeman George E. Martin, on Saturday night, April S, 1893. Policeman Martin started out upon his beat early in the evening, and shortly after he was seen to follow a man into a dark lane. There was a shot, a man ran away and Martin was picked up dead.

The crime for which Charles Salvards to-day paid the penalty was the murder

From descriptions given by persons who witnessed the murder, suspicion at once fastened upon Salvards; a noted Harrisburg thief, who had been seen in Carlisle that day. A reward of $1,000 was oldered for the capture of the murderer. Salvards was traced to Hagerstown, where, on the following Monday morning, he sought to conceal his identity by having his beard cut off. From Hagerstown he was traced to Winchester, Va., and there arrested. He was tried and convicted on circumstantial evidence. evidence.

Courting Trouble.

Perrount Index (Den.

The Wheeling Register is hunting trouble. It has at last taken a position on the coal tariff and favors free coal with an ardor worthy of a better cause. Nearly every day either a communica-tion or an editorial advocating free coal tion or an editorial advocating free coal appears in that paper. These articles are at times quite readable, but all show that their authors do not understand the subject or purposely are unfair. If any good could be accomplished we could see a reason for the Register's present course. It surely does not hope to influence the senators from this state and compel them to adopt its present views, for those views are not of suf-ficient age with the Register to indicate height are with the Rejuter to indicate that they were its fixed opinions. While we do not mean to dictate the course to "the leading Democratic journal of the state," yet we would suggest that it keep those coal articles a while longer in sonk. If the senate keeps coal on the free list, and that becomes the doctrine of the party, then they would be the new ist, and that becomes the doc-trine of the party, then they would be valuable matter, but if a duty is re-tained on coal it will be more difficult for the Register to regain its party stand-ing if it takes too firm a stand for free coal.

Words fall to express our gratitude to the citizens of Wheeling and to our many friends and relatives scattered over the United States, for their many messages of sympathy on the occasion of the sudden death of our beloved brother, James V. Reilly, who was just receiving the congratulations of his friends for his leadership and success in our recent legal contest. The blow was so unexpected that our joy was turned to sorrow and so dazed us that we were unable personally to thank those whate kindness we so much appreciated. We could not particularize without naming the whole community. We cannot retrain from mentioning the kindness of the two organizations with which our brother was connected, the Wheeling Fress Gub and the Conference of St. Vincent de Faul Society.
